

Chapter 3 : About Complicated Notice Boards

If this is an ordinary fairy tale, the story ends when everybody became happy.

But this story has an extra episode.

It starts from the scene where the young man added a new rule on his sign board.

One villager said “ I take care of the tree just because I want to eat. It's up to individuals to choose what to do with the fruit or the trees they took.”

He didn't change his sign board.

Another villager said “ Anybody can take my fruit or trees, but I don't want them to bother others.”

He added “However, don't bring them to war” on his sign board.

Another one villager said “ the young man said a reasonable thing, but the rule he added is not cool.”

He added a sentence “ However, use the fruits only for artistic development of its taste” as his own rule.

Finally, all tree in the village got all different new rules one another.

Some people didn't know what to do in this situation.

A pastry chef who gathered the fruits and made jam said “ because each one of fruits tastes subtly different, I mix a few of these ones and a few of those ones. Under new rules, can I mix the fruits ?”

A researcher who was developing new breed by combining the fruit trees said “ I'd like to graft this tree on that tree, but is this allowed in the new rules ?”

The people discussed and decided to put up one big sign board in the village. And stated definition of the fruit people can take freely on it.

This definition is not for integration of how to take the fruit or sentences on each sign board, but for determining whether each sign board is stating people can take the fruit freely. And the villagers decided to put approval stickers on each sign board which meet the definition.

So the trouble about the various kinds of small sign boards had appeared was settled, but the rule became a little more complicated because of the big sign board and the approval stickers.

Copyright Yutaka Kachi 2005-2006
Translated by Mikiko Kachi

Creative Commons

<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/2.1/jp/>

